Cowboy Singer

Fred Scott, cowboy, who will thrill thousands of California State Fair and Exposition visitors in Sacramento September 2 thru 11, once sang in San Francisco and Los Angeles grand opera.

Now on a sensational tour of the eastern states following the making of several outstanding musical western movies in Hollywood, Scott is a real Californian. Born in Fresno and raised in Oakland, voice critics predict a great future for him in the singing world.

He has been signed by secretary-manager Robert Muckler to appear as one of the stars on the California State Fair world-famous entertainment program.

Cambrian Camp Fire Outing

The two Camp Fire groups of Cambrian school went on an over night camping trip to Stevens creek.

They rode on a truck driven by Harold Hocking and his assistant W. Mahood. There were 28 in all. The younger group, led by Ruth Hocking planned the evening entertainment. The older group, led by Norma Fammatre prepared the evening meal.

They all came home having earned one or more honors and enjoyed a fine outing.

Drexels Wed At Reno July 29, '37

The Robert Lee Drexels have announced their marriage which occurred in Reno July 29 of last year.

Mr. Drexel is a graduate of San Jose State college of the 1938 June class and Mrs. Drexel, who before her marriage was Miss Ann Lovoi, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Lovoi of Campbell, is secretary to Coach Dudley De Groot.

Judge Davison Hears Many Cases

Judge of the Superior Court of Santa Clara county office No. 2, was appointed by the governor, June 17, 1937 as the successor to the late Honorable P. F. Gosbey. From the time of his appointment until July 1, 1938 (end of fiscal year,) he performed all the various duties of the office. He served as presiding judge for six months of that time, presided over the criminal department for three months, and for three months conducted jury trials. During that period, he was never absent upon any pudicial day, and at no time took any vacation from his labor. All cases on the trial calendar to be heard were set in June, unless a later date was requested by all parties. During this period of time there had been 10,497 hearings of cases in the superior court of Santa Clara county of which Judge Davison heard 4,636. There has been no reversals of any of his decisions by the higher courts.

Coroner Should Have Adequate Training, O'Brien

"Should the coroner be a mortician?" According to Jerry O'Brien, candidate for coroner and public administrator, the question is one of the most vital being asked by the voters .

"The entire question hinges on this fact. In a case of illness or of legal difficulties, one certainly turns to a doctor or an attorney. We look for the help of a trained man.

If the coroner and public administrator is not a mortician, it is quite obvious that he must employ the services of a mortician to carry out his duties.

"It is to the benefit of Santa Clara county to have a coroner who is a trained man and one who will carry out the functions of the office through his own efforts and through his direct personal supervision."

O'Brien pointed out that training is equally important in the duties of public administrator where states must be handled by the public officer. "The public administrator must deal in business and law," commented O'Brien, "and to do this to the best interests of an estate, the public administrator should be both qualified by his training and his business experience."

Reports Hi-Y Conference at Berea, Ky.

By Don Martin

Leaving hospitable Ganado Mission, the San Francisco Bay area delegation traveled on to the Hi-Y Congress at Berea, Ky. Crossing the New Mexico line, we passed through Gallup, the self-styled "Indian capital," and Albuquerque. Then on through the Texas "panhandle," whose chief city, Amarillo, compared favorably with San Jose.

Main point of interest in Oklahoma, which incidently was the most beautiful state we visited since leaving California, was the Elk City Cooperative hospital.

If interest continues to grow, socialized medicine may be an issue of the 1940 presidential election. The government has announced that it is prepared to spend millions of dollars to insure more of its people medical care. The American Medical association admit that there is a problem, but insists that the profession should be allowed to solve it and the government should keep hands off. All agree that, while tremendous achievements have been made in the realm of medicine, thousands of Americans continue to die each year of curable diseases.

Dr. M. Shadid and his constituents in Elk City believe they have the answer to this complex problem—cooperative. In the fall of 1929 Shadid called a representative number of men to a meeting and explained to them the benefits that would accrue if 2,000 families could be gotten together and persuaded to pay $50 each family, with which to build and equip a hospital for themselves and to pay $25 a year for which they could receive medical, surgical and hospital care free of charge. These men approved the idea and the hospital was built despite the bitter opposition of local doctors and the American Medical association.

Our party was shown through the clean, modern hospital by Dr. Shadid's son who pointed out that the $25 a year each family paid was more like health insurance. So far the project has been very successful, but it is still in the experimental stage.

Famous Men Had Glass Eyes

Nelson wasn't the only English hero to have a glass eye. The duke of Wellington, the "Iron Duke" of Waterloo fame, had one also. He bought a new eye every year. Two of them are preserved by the London firm of glass-eye makers who supplied him.

How Alaska Was Found

The voyage of Vitus Bering, resulting in the discovery of northwesternmost America, was made by order of Empress Elizabeth in 1740, and Alaska was added to the possessions of Russia. Thirteen years earlier Bering coasted northward far enough to satisfy himself that Asia and America were not connected.

CANDIDATE

popular and efficient supervisor of the Fourth District, who is a candidate to succeed himself at the primary election, August 30.

Club Entertains Ladies Tuesday

The second of three ladies' nights which the Kiwanis club will hold this summer was enjoyed Tuesday evening.

Miss Edith Hughes entertained with a piano solo, "Hazel Blossoms," and accompanied Miss Martha Boyd's solos, "In The Garden of Tomorrow" and "Sing, Sing" from the "Chocolate Soldier," the members and guests joining in the chorus of the latter.

Dr. W. R. Morgan, vice-president, presided in the absence of President Mark Purmort, and introduced Cyril Collett as chairman. He in turn presented his father the Rev. Cyril Collett who spent twenty years as a missionary in India.

He gave a most interestingly human account of life among the more lowly of that country, basing his talk on a series of stereopticon slides, pictures he himself had taken. They bore out his statement made at the beginning of his talk that everything in the life of a native of India is done "religiously." That does not at all mean honestly, rightly or mercifully according to Christian standards.

The speaker next week will be Merrill Collett, another son of the Rev. Collett. His subject will be "Public Administration Service."

Finding Gold at Cripple Creek

Gold was discovered in Poverty gulch, just southeast of the present city of Cripple Creek, Colo., late in 1890 by Bob Womack, a cow-puncher.

Sanitation Dist. Hearing Held By Supvervisors

The board of supervisors on Monday set September 20 as the date for the election to decide whether Campbell voters wish to have a sewer system established.

At the hearing Monday only one objection was raised. A written statement from the Southern Pacific company claimed that the formation of the district was not an urgent necessity and that the railroad would not materially benefit them and the amount of tax it would have to pay would be excessive.

Proponents of the plan stated that elimination of the railroad right of way would divide the area and make formation of the district impossible.

The board over-ruledthe protest and set the above named date for the election. Polls will be in the grammar school, open from 6 a. m. to 7 p. m., with Edwin Bowling, Mrs. B. Alma Leverton and Mrs. Maude Hyde forming the election board.

The district includes about 500 acres, and would provide sewage disposal for some 1500 property owners at an estimated cost of $132,000, most of which will be provided by federal funds.

The pipe line will connect with San Jose's outfall sewer near North Fifth street and Burton avenue. Engineer C. C. Kennedy explained that arrangements have been made with San Jose to this effect.

The legal notice calling for the election and describing the boundaries of the proposed district appears in this issue of the Press.

Deadline for Absentee Voters Is August 25

The period for application for absent voters ballots opened last week and will continue with the deadline, August 25.

Any voter registered for the August 30 primary, who is physically disabled or will be absent from the county on election day so that he will be unable to vote at his polling place may make written application to the county clerk for an "absent voter's ballot," such application must be signed by the voter asking for the ballot, which will be sent him by registered mail.

If you call in person at the county clerk's office and cast your ballot before him it will not have to be notarized.

Candidate Gray Makes Pledge

Chief of Police Louis L. Gray of Mountain View, candidate for sheriff, has something unique in the way of campaign letter heads and platform. Using the front and back of his campaign card data on opposite sides of the paper, Gray has had his oath of office printed in the center, a platform which he believes covers any promise that a candidat might make, and one which he declares he intends to keep if elected.

Gray cites as qualifications proficiency in office, knowledge of modern police science, best methods of handling crime prevention and a profound interest in the youth problem of today, during his four years as deputy sheriff and four years as chief of police.

A graduate of the California Peace Officers' Institute of Technical training; and active member of several state and national police organizations; vice president of the Peninsula Police Officers' association, Gray has done valuable research work in every subject coming within the scope of law enforcement.

Gray promises, if elected, to give the citizens of Santa Clara county a sincere, consistent program of law enforcement.

Cotton as a Perennial

Although cotton is grown as an annual plant in most countries, it has been cultivated in the Tropics as a perennial.

Weller Candidate For Cty. Auditor

ERNEST A. WELLER

A background of pioneer Santa Clara valley ancestry and life-long experience in business, banking and accounting are mentioned by Ernest A. Weller among his qualifications for the office of county auditor.

Weller started his career as a paper carrier for the Mercury Herald in 1907. He carried papers until 1911 after which he entered the business world as a salesman for a San Francisco corporation. Six years later he went into business for himself in Hollister, and after twelve years returned to San Jose to enter the employment of the Bank of America. In 1932 he organized the Weller-Campbell company, investment and E. A. Weller company.

His varied career in the business world eminently qualifies him to serve Santa Clara county as its auditor.

Mr. Weller is married and has two children attending the local scvhools. He is identified with the Masonic order, the Sciots, Elks, Eagles, Native Sons and the Pastime club in which he has many friends.

Tax Collector Race Will Be Settled Aug. 30

Chris A. Neddersen, San Jose accountant, is a candidate for the office of county tax collector. He states that if elected on August 30 he will conduct this office in a capable, honest and economical manner and will employ only deputies who will interest themselves in the problems of the taxpayer and give courteous and efficient service at all times.

Chris Neddersen has lived in Santa Clara county for nearly twenty years, and is particularly well known in civic, fraternal and Legion circles. At one time he served as a deputy in the office of the county auditor and later was advanced to the chief deputyship in the office of the county tax collector. He is now taking, what to him, is his first opportunity to run for the office he is so well qualified to fill.

As there are but two candidates for this office, friends of Chris Neddersen will only have one opportunity to vote for him and that will be on August 30th.

Shelleys Given House Warming

The Harold Shelleys who recently moved into their new home on San Jose-Los Gatos road, opposite the home of Mrs. Jessie A. Shelley, were given a housewarming Saturday evening by a group of friends and neighbors.

After the guests had inspected the attractive new home they spent a jolly time playing Dutch whist.

Guests who participated in the evenings pleasure were, Messrs. and Mesdames William Bachman, Jack Bodin, Howard Brown and Herschel Johnson, Mrs. Jessie Shelley, the Misses Betty Bachman, Frances and Jane Boden, Hortense Johnson, Lois Stevens, and Messrs. Loren and Ralph Johnson.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—The playing fields of Eton have been given due credit for Britain's power and durability. We seem to have overlooked the playing fields of West Point. A sweeping technical reorganization of the army is news this week. It might not have come off had it not been for a certain incident on the West Point football field. Gen. Malin Craig, chief of staff, is the reorganizer. He is preparing the army for the open game—swiftness, mobility, adaptiveness, as in modern football.

Army to Ape Strategy Of Football

It was an instant of inspired open football, back in the juggernaut days of the guards back and the side-line buck, that saved young Malin Craig for the army and the current reordering of tactics and equipment.

Just before the game with Trinity college in 1897, the West Point scholastic command had decided to retire Cadet Craig. Of an ancient army line, with many relatives in the service, he had been visiting around army posts. His marks had suffered. The ax was to fall just after the game.

Craig was a brilliant backfield player, but somewhat given to unplanned maneuvers. Carrying the ball at a critical turn of the game, he lost his interference in a broken field. He shook off several tacklers, but, somewhere around the 35-yard line, a stone wall of Trinity players loomed head.

Ducking a hurtling body, scarcely checking his stride, he booted a perfect field goal—winning the game, with appropriate Frank Merriwell trimmings. Of course, the faculty couldn't fire a hero. The ax was put away, a tutor was found, and Cadet Craig finished creditably—to establish the open game in the American army.

Young Craig Boots Goal On the Run

He was a baseball star, also, and old Pop Anson tried to sign him for the Chicago National team. Born in St. Joseph, Mo., he was the grandson of a Civil war general. His father was a major and he has a son recently out of West Point.

In the Spanish-American war, the Philippines, France and in minor mixups, he was a quick thinker and a self-starter, heavily garlanded from the first and known as a "progressive" tactician.

A FEW years ago, Richard Strauss was in trouble with the Nazis. The libretto of his opera, "The Silent Woman," had been written by Stefan Zweig, a "non-Aryan." The opera was a flop and Herr Strauss was ousted as president of the Reich Culture chamber and chairman of the Federation of German Composers. He is now restored to official favor.

Strauss Is Restored to Nazi Favor

His librettist for his new opera, "Der Fridenstag," is a certified Aryan, Joseph Gregor, a Viennese poet, and its world premier at Munich is a brilliant success, with new garlands for the seventy-five-year-old composer.

So apparently all is forgiven, and the traditional rebel of the musical world is rebelling no longer. He had decided to save the world at any cost, but turning sixty, he concluded he was doing well enough by merely keeping out of jail.

When "Salome" was presented in 1905, puritanical New York was shocked, and the mere idea of its being given here caused a row. Its presentation in New York in 1921 was taken calmly. Strauss' "Murky Psychographies," as the critics called them, didn't bring any riot calls. These muddy phantasmagorias of his earlier years got him into many battles, but he settled down to writing and—being a good business man—to money making. Once, when he was quarreling with Berlin, he was asked if he would play there. "I would play on a manure pile if they pay me for it," he said.

'Salome' Was Cause of Famous Row

He is no kin of the famous waltz family of Vienna. In mellow and beery old Bavaria, his father was a horn-blower and his mother a brewer's daughter. He has prospered through his later years, the owner of a castle in Vienna and an estate in Bavaria.

In 1930, German cities were fighting for him as their leading citizen, with chambers of commerce competing and making offers. Then came the brief eclipse over the "non-Aryan" associations, and now the full effulgence of his restored career.

Does F. D. R. Seek Third Term? President Has Many Reasons

If Roosevelt Is Sure of Victory He'll Run; Meanwhile It's a Waiting Game with President Holding Cards, Says Observer

By WILLIAM BRUCKART
WNU Service, National Press Bldg., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON. — Senator Burke, the Nebraska Democrat, has come forward with a proposition fixing the term of the President of the United States at six years and limiting an individual to one term. It is not a new proposition. It has been suggested before—as long ago as President Jackson's term—but it takes on a new significance now. Its new importance is not because of Senator Burke's declared intention to press the thing through to enactment so much as in the fact that "third term talk" is all over the place these days.

I do not profess to know what is in Mr. Roosevelt's mind about a third term. That is one subject upon which he has kept his own counsel quite severely. He is completely capable of keeping his own counsel when he desires, and I can say without equivocation that he has kept it in this case. The Washington correspondent or observer usually can get a tip-off as to the presidential mind in ordinary matters, but not so regarding the third term.

Precedent-Maker

The third-term precedent will be no barrier to Franklin Roosevelt if he thinks four more years will help him to achieve history's rating as a great president, thinks William Bruckart. Two of Mr. Roosevelt's outstanding characteristics are his enjoyment of the power of the chief executive and his willingness to create new precedents.

Thus, having made a reassuring statement that this is only a guess as to the future, I shall try to put the puzzle sections together and make a prediction. There are many, many factors to be examined. Without them, there can be no judgment as to the circumstance. With them in full view, cerain conclusions appear inescapable. Note that I said "appear." I use that word for the reason that Mr. Roosevelt is one of the few men ever to occupy the White House whose whole attitude may change completely overnight on any given subject.

Mr. Roosevelt Revels In the Presidency

Mr. Roosevelt has a consuming desire to go down in history as a great President. There can be no doubt of that. He wants history to show him as an outstanding friend of the people, the masses. He will let nothing prevent him from that course if it is within his power.

If there is one trait in the makeup of the man that transcends others, I believe it is his desire to establish new precedents. We speak of him as precedent-breaker. That is incorrect. He likes to make new ones. No other President has ever done more than make motions about a third term. Mr. Roosevelt would not be disturbed by the fact that never before had any President occupied the White House for 12 years. I suspect that he would enjoy doing that sort of thing.

And when I mention enjoyment, I need to refer at the same time to the very well known fact that Mr. Roosevelt enjoys being President. That is, he has what we say is a "good time" on the job. There is no real weariness for him as Chief Executive. Within the range of my quarter of a century as an observer, there has been no other President who so reveled under the generally accepted tremendous burden of the presidency.

President's Popularity Has Religious Fervor

Behind the scenes, no President has ever had a hallelujah chorus of so many voices around him. There has never been a President with such great personal popularity as Mr. Roosevelt. The combination of these things, the continual songs of praise that he hears from his close advisors and the adoring multitudes—well, I firmly believe that no living man can maintain the equilibrium necessary for sound and sane thinking while such semi-religious fervor toward him is shown.

Seldom, if ever before, has any President had the same type of promoting theorists, starry-eyed dreamers around him. The country never has had an administration as radical as Mr. Roosevelt's regime. At no time have as many crackpots, schemers, theorists with untried panaceas had a chance to get their plans put into action. Some are workable; most of them are not. The fact that some have worked, however, is the very reason the whole crew sticks around and keeps plugging for further trials of this, that or the other. For most of these folks, it is the first time in public life, their first entry into national office with authority. They like it. Also, they like the payroll. It is natural that they want to stay.

Effort to Restore Party To Old-Line Democrats

There is, beside all of these factors, the differences within the party of which Mr. Roosevelt is the titular head. I believe that the Democratic party machinery was completely taken over by the radical wing, and so now there is a definite effort under way to restore the party control to old and tried Democrats. That is to say, the effort is to unhorse the type of men like Ickes, Wallace, Corcoran, Minton of Indiana, and others of that stripe. Men like Senator Harrison and Vice President Garner, and even Jim Farley, do not like to see those other fellows in a position of responsibility. They believe in the Democratic party for Democrats.

So, it is quite apparent that the struggle for party control is a rough and tumble fight from now on, because there is a convention of the party to be held in 1940, and it is not too early to line up delegates. Were it not for the battle ahead and the desire of those surrounding Mr. Roosevelt to keep on with his reforms—and the jobs—Mr. Roosevelt would control the 1940 convention. His declarations of a "purge of the party" has made it impossible for him to control the convention without a fight. That is to say, he will be unable to pick the 1940 nominee (to carry out his plans) without a battle.

President Is Playing Waiting Game

Now, there are many who believe that Mr. Roosevelt's personal popularity will be the only thing sufficient to swing that party control. He will not be able to nominate his own pick, but he will be able to nominate himself, say these observers.

When we have reached that stage, therefore, we have reached the point of determination of the course which Mr. Roosevelt will follow. My own conclusion is definitely that Mr. Roosevelt is preparing for any eventuality. He is unlikely to say he will or will not run. He will wait. If the situation makes it appear that he can win, he will "accept" the nomination; if, however, he believes that he will get licked, he will try to pick the nominee. He will select a man who will do his bidding, if he has not lost control of the party convention. I am convinced Mr. Roosevelt would like to run, but he will not run if there is certain defeat staring him in the face.

And when we talk of third terms and precedents, etc., I must recall a certain vote in the senate on February 10, 1928. President Coolidge had said he did not "choose" to run, but there were many Democrats who thought that was a trick to invite the nomination. So the senate adopted a resolution, a precedent-making resolution, saying it was the sense of the senate that no President ought to have a third term or something to that effect.

How Will They Vote This Time?

It gave me quite a laugh when I looked up the vote on that resolution, because I can see some very delicate situations developing for some of the senators who voted for that resolution. It was good politics then, of course, but what, I wonder, are some of those men going to do if Mr. Roosevelt moves in on them with a third term campaign?

Of the present Democratic members of the senate, we find the following as having voted their expression that no President should have a third term: Ashurst of Arizona, Barkley of Kentucky, Gerry of Rhode Island, Glass of Virginia; Harrison of Mississippi, King of Utah, Thomas of Oklahoma, Wagner of New York, Wheeler of Montana, McKellar of Tennessee, Neely of West Virginia, Pittman of Nevada, Sheppard of Texas, Smith of South Carolina, and Tydings of Maryland. We find also that Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin, the great Progressive leader, voted against a third term, and we also note Senator Norris, another Progressive, who said by his vote that no man should have a third term.

Well, it struck me as being funny. Take such men as Barkley, the New Deal leader in the senate; and Neely and McKellar, who continually have popped off in praise of Mr. Roosevelt and who have no complaint about any phase of the New Deal. Or consider the plight of Thomas, of Oklahoma, who probably will be reelected and who, therefore, will be faced with a decision if Mr. Roosevelt decides to seek a third term. It will be easy for Pat Harrison, or Wheeler or Smith of South Carolina, to vote for a similar resolution in the next session; but it won't be so easy for the others to decide, because those who have opposed some of Mr. Roosevelt's program will be able to say they are being consistent.

CHAPTER I

Barbara, dancing with Robb Morrison and more and more distressed by his too obvious devotions, met Helen Frayne's eye as they passed on the floor; and Helen laughed at something her partner had said, in a metallic mirthless fashion, and avoided Barbara's glance. Barbara looked around for rescue; and Robb said, whispering in her ear:

"Say, Helen's got her eye on me! Let's duck, go outside."

Now this party was Helen Frayne's, at the Club in Essex; and Robb was Helen's too, as everyone knew. But tonight—he met Barbara before dinner for the first time—he had made Barbara and himself conspicuous by his attentions. So she was at once uncomfortable and unhappy—and a little afraid of what Helen might do. Helen was nice enough; yet she could be cruel too.

Barbara declined Robb's invitation to promenade; she said: "No, let's not! Robb, find Johnny, will you please? He has my compact in his pocket."

"Come on," he urged. "We'll both go hunt for him!" He took her cheerfully by the arm.

But she freed herself. "Sh-h! No!" she whispered. "You must go rescue Helen. See! She's stuck with Luke Tydings."

He laughed, shook his head. "Don't want to be a rescuer," he protested, a little thickly. "Just want to dance and dance and dance with you, forever and ever. How about a little punch?"

"No, thanks!" Barbara had accepted one cocktail before dinner, since it was easier to do so than to refuse; but she used that one as a shield, barely tasted it, so that her full glass protected her against persuasions to take another. Not everyone had been so discreet. Robb, for instance, was certainly in no need of another glass of punch. "Do run along," she insisted now, good-humored but insistent; and she turned and gave him a small thrust toward Helen yonder across the floor.

She realized, too late, that Helen was watching them, had seen her do this. Worse, Robb marched straight to Helen, saluted, and said—much too loudly, "Barbara says I must report for duty, Helen!"

So naturally, some people laughed; and Helen was red with anger. Her eyes met Barbara's across the floor.

And that was why Helen deliberately set to work to get Johnny Boyd drunk. For Barbara had come with Johnny, driving down from Boston. She liked him well enough. He was a gay youngster, still at Harvard, gentle and amusing and good fun; and he usually remembered his responsibilities. Tonight he had cut in on Robb once or twice, till Robb began to cut back so quickly that people noticed and laughed; and Johnny got a little mad.

"I'll knock him endways if he cuts back this time," he told Barbara; and she said in pleading urgency:

"No, Johnny! Don't have a row! I'll get rid of him. Here he comes now."

Johnny obeyed her; but when a little later Barbara sent Robb to Helen, Johnny had disappeared; and someone else danced with Barbara, and before she could escape, Helen captured Johnny. They went out of doors somewhere, and Barbara could only wait for them to return; and when they came back again and began to dance together, Barbara saw what had happened. Helen had done her work well. Johnny was first red, then pale, then red again; and his feet were stumbling and uncertain.

Someone cut in on them and took Helen and left Johnny tottering in the middle of the floor; and Barbara guided her partner that way, thanked him, dismissed him, turned to Johnny.

He said, "Hi, Barb!" His arm encircled her. "Where you been all evening?"

She steadied him skillfully. "I've a frightful headache, Johnny! And it's so hot in here; I'm just stifling. Would it spoil your fun if we started home?"

He looked down at her in bemused suspicion. "Wait a minute! Trying to play nursemaid, are you? I'm all right, Barb!"

"Of course you are! You're fine. I hate to drag you away, but I'm simply exhausted, Johnny."

He said elaborately: "Well, of course in that case! Always the gentleman; that's me. Damsel in distress! Women and children first. Don't spare the horses. Le's go!"

"Thanks, Johnny. I'll meet you in the hall."

They went to say good-night. Helen said mockingly, "Oh, going so early, Barb?"

"It's been a lovely party," Barbara assured her.

When they came to the car, Johnny said:

"Thanks for getting me out of that, Barb! I'm drunk. Cocked as a mink! I'm sorry as the Devil. But—do you mind driving? I don't want to hang you on a telephone pole somewhere."

She said gratefully: "Of course not. I'll drive, but you'll be all right presently. We'll open the windshield, get a lot of air."

"Sorry to make a show of myself. It hit me all of a sudden."

"I understand."

When they were under way, he slumped beside her and was presently asleep. The night was cool, in early fall. She stopped the car once to turn up his coat collar and adjust his scarf against a chill. He snored heavily; and as she drove on she considered the problem now presented. This was Johnny's car. If she took him to Cambridge, she would have to find a taxi to her home. If she went directly to her home, Johnny would have to drive to Cambridge alone—and for that he was in no condition.

She decided to try to bring him back to sobriety again, before they came to Boston; and she turned off the main highway down a short spur road that ended above the rocky shore, and stopped the car and tried to wake him up, to make him get out of the car and breathe deeply and walk up and down. But when she shook him, he only roused enough to mumble protests and go back to sleep again. She remembered hearing that you could wake a drunken man by slapping his face, and she tried this; and Johnny muttered to himself, and someone beside the car said harshly, "What's going on here?"

Barbara turned and saw a policeman standing at her elbow, peering in at them. She said, "It's all right, officer."

But Johnny was awake now. "Sure's all right!" he declared; and in alcoholic belligerence demanded, "What do you want to make out of it?"

The policeman said, "All right, buddy, pipe down." He asked Barbara, "Handle him all right, can you?"

"Oh, yes. I just want to get him out of the car, get him to walk up and down."

"He's a fine one to get in this shape with a nice girl on his hands!"

"It isn't quite all his fault, officer."

"I'll help you cool him down," the policeman decided. He went to the other side of the car and opened the door and said, "Come on, buddy, a little fresh air will fix you up all right."

He half dragged Johnny Boyd out of the car, set him on his feet. Johnny promptly hit him. He flung himself at the officer so violently that the policeman was borne backward and fell, and Johnny swarmed on top of him, and Barbara tried to come at them and was tossed aside by the violence of their movements, and the officer got to his feet and dragged Johnny upright, and said urgently, "Hey, buddy, behave!"

Another car turned down the road, its lights upon them. Barbara cried, "Please, Johnny!"

But Johnny was violent; the policeman said wearily, "All right, if you want it." His blow landed with a sharp, slapping sound; and Johnny went limply down, and Barbara protested unhappily,

"Oh, did you have to do that?"

The officer was apologetic. "Best thing for him, Miss. He'll wake up in the morning with a head, that's all." He added, "But I'll have to take him in!"

"Can't I take him home, please?"

"He's tore my uniform! I'll have some explaining to do. And it might teach him something, to wake up in jail!"

"I'll go with you. I can't leave him."

Someone touched her arm, and she whirled, and a man said, "Can I help in any way?" There was a moment's silence of surprise. The newcomer explained: "I'm Professor Brace, Harvard Business School. If I can be of service?"

It was the officer who answered him. "You might take the young lady home, Professor," he suggested. "The boy here has had a drop too many. I had to slap him down. He'll sleep it off in the station; but it would be too bad to have a nice girl—"

"But I want to take care of him," Barbara insisted. "I can't run out on him."

Professor Brace said, "You seem sober."

"Of course I am!"

"Then you ought to be sensible. Come along. I'll see you safe home; and the officer will give your gallant young escort a break in court!"

The policeman added his urgencies. "Yes, ma'am, you do that. Drunk and disorderly, five dollars. That's all."

"But he can't go to court in dinner clothes!"

The professor's tone held a grudging approval. "You're a loyal young woman. Suppose we do this. You tell me where he lives. I'll take you home, then bring him some clothes in the morning before he has to go to court. There's no need of your being mixed up in this."

And Barbara in the end surrendered; and the officer approving, she and Professor Brace got into his car and drove away. After they had been some silent moments on the road past Revere toward Boston, he asked stiffly, "Now, where do you live?"

She told him. "I'm Barbara Sentry," she said. "I'll tell you where to go."

"You choose curious company," he suggested. "Why does an intelligent girl like you get herself mixed up in a mess like this?"

"Don't you ever find yourself in silly messes? You talk as if you were a thousand years old."

"I'm twenty-eight, if that matters."

She said, amused: "And already so serious I suppose, being a professor, you think you have to be!"

He was silent, and they came to the Tunnel entrance, and he paid toll and went on. In the Tunnel, she said contritely: "I'm sorry. I was horrid to be sarcastic! And I am grateful, really. You're nice to take all this bother."

"If you picked your escorts a little more carefully, you wouldn't require rescue."

"Oh, don't keep on being a professor," she urged, smiling. "You're not in a classroom now."

They emerged from the Tunnel; and as he swung to the right, he had to check speed for a moment to allow a car coming from the left to proceed in front of them. Professor Brace caught a glimpse of the man at the wheel; and as they followed the other car, Barbara said in quick surprise:

"Why, that's father! That's our car. He must have been down at the office."

"At the office? At this time of night? It's quarter past twelve!"

"He has to go down sometimes," she explained. "Don't pass him. Let's let him get home before we do. He gives me the dickens when I'm out late."

"Not very effectively, I should say," he commented; but he did slow down, kept half a block behind the other car. And they talked now not so much of Johnny as of each other. It was his turn to make apologies.

WHAT to EAT and WHY ★

C. Houston Goudiss Discusses the Food Value of Ice Cream

Nationally Known Food Authority Describes Its Place in the Diet

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS

6 East 39th Street, New York City.

ONE of the most significant contributions of modern nutritional science was the discovery of the importance of the protective foods—milk, eggs, fresh fruits and vegetables. These foods abound in the minerals and vitamins that help to insure normal growth and health, and safeguard us against the deficiency diseases.

In this group, milk and dairy products made from it assume a commanding position because milk is the best and most practical source of calcium and vitamins A and G. These substances should be consumed in much greater proportions than at present if we are to increase health and efficiency and improve our chances for longevity. The first rule in providing adequate amounts of the protective foods is to allow daily a quart of milk for every child and at least a pint for each adult. This amount of milk need not always be consumed as a beverage, however. It may be used in cooked dishes or eaten in the form of cheese and ice cream.

Composition of Ice Cream

Ice cream is often regarded as a confection, but it deserves to be classed among our most nutritious foods. It is composed of varying proportions of cream, milk, sugar, flavoring and frequently a binder or stabilizer such as gelatin. The composition varies somewhat between the home-made and the commercial product, and the commercial product differs in various states. That is because standards governing the butter fat content differ widely so that the requirement ranges from 8 to 14 per cent. Most large commercial companies produce an ice cream with about 12 per cent fat.

Guard Against Contamination

Some states require the pasteurization of the milk or cream used in manufacturing ice cream; others stipulate that the entire mix must be pasteurized before freezing. These measures are desirable, as ice cream requires the same scrupulous care that should be given to milk and cream.

Because of the possibilities for contamination, several precautions should be observed in buying ice cream. Choose cream manufactured by a reputable concern. Be sure to buy from a dealer who keeps it well frozen, for ice cream that has been melted and frozen again may be dangerous, owing to the opportunity for the multiplication of bacteria while it was melted. See to it also, that the dealer uses sanitary methods in dispensing.

Home-Made Ice Cream

An easy way to make certain of the purity of the ice cream you serve is to make this delicious dessert at home. Motor-driven freezers are available, as well as those that are manually operated. And the homemaker with an automatic refrigerator finds it easier to make ice cream than to prepare many less interesting and nutritious desserts.

Ice cream powders which simplify the preparation of homemade ice cream, can be obtained unflavored, or in a variety of flavors, including lemon and maple, in addition to the popular vanilla, chocolate and strawberry. The ice cream powders may be used with milk or a combination of milk and cream to produce a healthful dessert suitable for every member of the family. They also may be used for less rich but equally refreshing milk or buttermilk sherbets.

A canned freezing mix is likewise available and is especially nice in a fruit flavor as it contains pieces of the whole fruit.

A Comparison With Milk

If we regard one-sixth of a quart of ice cream as an average serving, and compare it with one cup of milk, we make the interesting discovery that there is a close relation between the two. The ice cream provides about 24 more calories and only a trifle less protein, calcium, phosphorus, iron and vitamin A. There is considerably less vitamin G, but ice cream is nevertheless considered an excellent source of this important vitamin.

A Healthful Food

It then becomes apparent why ice cream is considered as an excellent food, not only for adults but for children and convalescents, and why one outstanding authority urges the liberal use of ice cream as a means of increasing the vitamin A content of the diet.

Plain ice cream may be used interchangeably with simple milk puddings. Rich mixtures, such as those filled with nuts and crystallized fruits, rank with the heartier desserts and should follow a lighter meal.

Ice cream is so rich in nourishment that it should not be consumed indiscriminately between meals, but should always be considered as part of the day's ration. When that is done, one nutrition authority states that its beneficial effects can hardly be overestimated.

Effect on Digestion

One frequently hears the question, "Doesn't the eating of ice cream retard the digestion of other foods consumed at the same time?" The answer is that it does slow up slightly the emptying time of the stomach but this delay is without significance and is more than compensated for by the important nutrients it provides.

Many people believe that it is injurious to follow ice cream with hot coffee. But it has been demonstrated that just the opposite is true. The coffee raises the temperature of the food in the stomach and thus modifies the cooling effect of the ice cream.

Another common question concerns the effect of cake or pie a la mode. Experiments indicate that eating ice cream with cake or pie produces a more satisfactory gastric juice than when either of these foods is eaten alone. One must take into consideration, however, that cake or pie a la mode is a rich combination and plan the remainder of the meal accordingly.

Use More Ice Cream

It has been estimated that five billion pounds of milk are used each year in the production of commercial ice cream, which provides about three gallons of ice cream per capita. The amounts of ice cream made at home will raise this figure somewhat. But the amount consumed may well be further increased, because when properly made from pure ingredients, ice cream deserves to rank with other dairy products among our most wholesome and nourishing foods.

Asks Re-election

A. H. Bell

"Bell for Justice" was the keynote of a meeting held last Tuesday noon at the Hotel Lyndon, Los Gatos, attended by a nonpartisan group which included both prominent Democrats and Republicans from throughout Redwood township. Judge Bell himself was not present.

The scope and importance of the justice court was outlined and a resume given of matters over which the court holds jurisdiction. As evidence of the qualifications of Judge Bell, the incumbent, it was shown that he has handled approximately 4,500 cases with only seven appeals taken to higher courts; and that his judgment was sustained in every case but one. Further, it was also shown that Judge Bell has handled hundreds of cases informally—civil, criminal and juvenile—where settlements in the best interests of litigants and society generally were reached without the trouble and expense of court action. In this regard, his outstanding work among juveniles was stressed.

Judge Bell was declared the outstanding candidate for the office. His association with his father, attorney and justice for many years here, familiarized him with court procedure and practice, and it has been demonstrated beyond a doubt that his legal training has been more than sufficient to qualify him for the position he again seeks. During his own seven years as justice he has gained practical experience and ably fulfilled all requirements. Judge Bell's law library is complete, and enables him to render accurate and competent service.

Mention was made that Judge Bell has depended on his own efforts for his living from the beginning of his career, and has been successful. It was forcibly stated that citizens have the right to demand public officials who will fill the office in the best interests of all the people, and that personal need or ambition should not alone be considered.

Judge Bell's personal history was outlined. He has lived in Redwood township all his life; received his schooling here and in San Jose; has been actively engaged in business in Los Gatos for 25 years except for the period of the world war; and has taken an active part in the civic and fraternal life of the community. He was city councilman, town of Los Gatos, 9½ years; mayor, one term; a member of the Los Gatos post, American Legion since its inception; charter member of the Rotary club; member Masonic lodge; and member of the chamber of Commerce throughout his business life. During his war service, due to training and adaptability, he was selected to serve in the intelligence department, handling matters pertaining to laws of the war department, thus receiving additional training and experience.

Mayor Vertin, one of the speakers at the meeting stated "I can find no candidate so well qualified to hold the position; none more competent, fair and honest; none who has done so much for his community. I appreciate the work Judge Bell has done for the youth of our community. I am for A. H. Bell for justice of the peace without doubt or fear, and expect to do everything in my power to assure his re-election .

Few Criminals Acquitted Here, Says Fitzgerald

"Criminal prosecution and civil law are the two most vital functions of district attorney," announced John P. Fitzgerald, candidate for district attorney, yesterday.

Santa Clara county, according to Fitzgerald, acquitts fewer criminals who have committed major crimes than any other county of the same or larger population in California. "This, I believe, is due to both the experienced and vigorous prosecution of crime in this county.

"Effective prosecution is the greatest weapon there is for crime prevention.

"Santa Clara county is a corporation estimated as being worth $350,000,000," said Fitzgerald, "and its record in civil matters relative to civil suits leads the entire state. This saves taxpayers a great deal of money.

We don't like to break in a man and then lose him. I believe the figures that show the average term of employment of the district attorney's staff at fifteen years proves that experience is valued highly."

Dr. Kennedy Recommends Amos Williams

Before leaving for Europe where he and his wife are now touring the British Isles on bicycles, Dr. Gerald H. Kennedy, president of San Jose Ministerial association, left the following letter with the campaign committee working for the election of Amos O. Williams to the office of coroner of Santa Clara County:

"Knowing the personal qualifications of Mr. Amos O. Williams, I would recommend him without hesitation for the public office he seeks. Sincerely yours, GERALD H. KENNEDY.

TAXES IN U. S. HIGHEST OF ALL NATIONS

According to a tabulation made recently, some very startling and amazing facts relative to taxes have been brought out by Harry Scherman, author of "The Promise Men Live By" and re-printed by the New York Herald Tribune under date of June 8.

The President in a speech made recently said, " Taxes local, and state and federal combined, are no where near as high in this country as they are in any other great nation," a statement extraordinary in its thoughtlessness and doesn't begin to jibe with facts, as revealed by a comparative tabulation which is as follows:

Taxes in the United States—$133 per person.

Taxes in Great Britain—$123 per person.

Taxes in France—$103 per person.

Such a thoughtless misleading of trusting citizens on a matter of such elementary importance to them, cannot be excused on any ground.

The FARMERS CORNER

by RALPH H. TAYLOR

Executive Secretary Agricultural Council of California

"Thirty dollars every Thursday!"

an inviting prospect, if you can bury your head in the economic sands and believe in it.

And apparently some 700,000 Californians did just that; for 700,000 Californians, according to official reports, signed petitions to submit the $30-every-week pension act to the voters at the November General Election.

Never in the history of the State have so many citizens signed petitions for an initiative act as signed-up for Thirty Dollars Every Thursday. It is an amazing and startling record—startling in that it means the act will have a good chance of approval at the polls unless voters look before they leap; startling, too, in that the measure, if it becomes law, will play havoc with the state's financial structure and will start a stampede to California which will double and treble the rush of refugees now crossing our borders.

But perhaps the worst aspect of the new pension craze is that hundreds of thousands of old people who have high hopes of retirement, with a life annuity of $30 per week, will be bitterly disappointed and disillusioned—after parting with hard-earned dollars to finance a movement which is foredoomed to failure.

In the interest of humanity, if not in the interest of state solvency, it is to be hoped that the fallacy of the plan is exposed long before election day and that the act is repudiated at the polls, instead of being invalidated in the courts, or collapsing of its own weight after an unsuccessful attempt to make it work. California farm organizations can perform no more worthwhile service this year than to advise their members of the unsoundness and utter impossibility of the will-o'-the-wisp program which this initiative contemplates.

Let's take a look at this act with the magic title.

If it becomes effective, all California citizens, 50 years-of-age or over and "not employed for compensation," would be eligible to receive 30 state-issued, one-dollar warrants, or certificates, every Thursday.

Estimates of the number of people in California who would be eligible vary from 700,000 to 900,000, but promoters of the plan estimate that 500,000 persons would accept the pension immediately. At $30 per week, they would be paid $15,000,000 a week. At the end of the first year, there would be $780,000,000 in state certificates in circulation!

Theoretically, at least, the warrants, or certificates, would be retired each year by a 2-cent per week tax on each dollar certificate. But who would pay that tax? With $780,000,000 worth of the state warrants in circulation, it may be assumed that California merchants would have about $500,000,000 worth in their tills every Thursday—providing, of course, that merchants accepted them in exchange for merchandise, as the plan contemplates. At 2-cents per certificate, that would mean a weekly tax bill of $10,000,000 for California merchants on top of all other taxes.

But there is every likelihood—in fact, it is a virtual certainty—that banks would refuse to accept the certificates as "money," for the federal government reserves the exclusive right to issue money and banks are squeamish about their security. But consider some of the other practical problems: With "state money," not recognized in any other state, how could California merchants buy from out-of-state wholesalers or manufacturers? And if they couldn't turn the "money" into the bank, or use it to replenish their stocks, just what would they do with it? Certainly, farmers wouldn't accept "certificates" in lieu of cash for their commodities—for farmers have to be careful about money; they're not overly endowed with it.

There is grave probability, of course, that the Thirty Dollars Every Thursday plan would be declared unconstitutional in the courts if, by any chance, it should secure approval of the voters. But California can ill afford to gain the reputation of enacting crackpot legislation which requires intervention of the federal government to save it from financial ruin. Nor can it afford to invite a new stampede from other states. California taxpayers should render a smashing "No" verdict on this proposal—and farmers should lead the procession!

Retailers Endorse Hall

Marshall S. Hall, candidate for Assemblyman for the 31st Assembly District, has received the unanimous endorsement of association of independent retailers, announcement reveals. Grocers, druggists and other independent stores of Campbell have received word of Hall's endorsement.

Philip J. Sanfilippo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Sanfilippo of Campbell, who just arrived from Washington state after seven weeks of military training at Fort Lewis, has been elected as a delegate of the Phi Chi Medical fraternity to the 28th biennial national convention at Memphis, Tennessess. Philip is the secretary of this fraternity and is onw a junior at the University of California medical school.

King Vulture Dangerous

The king vulture, a native of South America, is regarded as extremely dangerous. Unlike the eagle, it does not use its claws to carry its prey or tear it apart. Instead, it strikes with the weight of its body and then uses its beak to transport the unlucky quarry.

Birds Used as Watchdogs

The only birds used as watchdogs are the Crested Screamer and the Trumpeter, turkey-sized fowls, of South America. At an early age, says Collier's Weekly, they are trained to protect poultry, a duty that is faithfully and successfully discharged, especially by the Screamer, with the two sharp spurs that grow on each wing.

A Capable Prosecutor

The record of John P. Fitzgerald in criminal prosecution stands as one of the best in California. As a fearless, tireless and able prosecutor, he has helped Santa Clara County to the record it holds in criminal prosecution. The percentage of acquittals in major criminal cases in this county is far below every other county in California of the same or larger population.

John P. Fitzgerald has proven his ability as a criminal prosecutor. Elect him district attorney.

VOTE IN AUGUST!

This is the year and the season, with the state primary less than two weeks away, when California not only has ears attuned to the hum of an eccelerating business dynamo, but also to the voices in the political arena.

But a word to the wise on that score is sufficient, for they know one vote in the August primary is worth a dozen in November. On the last Tuesday in August each voter's ballot can go to the man of his choice. But if he shirks his duty until November, he will find his choice restricted to those nominated in August, leaving a Hobson's choice !

This year the voter's responsibility is doubly important. With the business index swinging upward, the need of representatives to carry that upturn through to completion i imperative. California, like other states, can ill afford to place the management of its affairs in the hands of those bent on furthering impractical proposals and pet peeves.

We have already heard of the super-spending plan of the senator who wanted to build some eight billion dollar roads, the super-taxin• scheme of Rep Patman to disrupt retail distributive systems and disorganize the achievements of low-cost mass marketing, the super-censorship plan of a congressman to establish dictatorship over the press.

But the last-chance voter has small cause for complaint if similar foolish schemes arise in the future through his failure to help elect more enlightened representatives. August 30 is more than a week away—time enough for every rgistered Californian to make it a must-vote day!

DOWN WITH THE DEBT!

The depression did more than pinch American pocketbooks.

It taught American cities an invaluable lesson, and the beneficial results are already apparent. All over the country, states the latest bulletin of the National Municipal league, cities—except those between 30,000 and 50,000 population—are reducing their bonded debt.

Under the buffetings of depression, cities found themselves acutely oppressed by irreducible fixed charges of their bonded debts. They put the pay-as-you-go principle into practice and were able to reef their sails to meet the gusty winds of recession safely.

The report discloses 64 per cent of the cities can boast a decreasing bonded debt, 11 per cent with no increase, and 24 per cent with the debt rising. The spreading popularity of the pay-as-you-go method is genuinely suspicious in the fact of incessant budget-boosting drives. California, in particular, is no stranger to these measures. Confronting the state now is a plan to give the "Go!" sign to the arge-scale municipal spending and indebtedness through the Garrison Bond Act, permitting cities to issue bonds with no provision that cities will even stand financially responsible for them!

Fortunately, the current trend of cities is moving away from spending on borrowed money, and such proposals are being viewed with increasingly sketpical eyes. America didn't weather a depression for nothing!

IT CAN BE DONE

California moved forward on two fronts last week to write precedent-breaking events into the history of its labor relations.

The foundation-stones for an amicable settlement of a strike in 20 bay region warehouses involving 500 workers, and threatening to include 8000 more, were laid down voluntarily and jointly by a group of public-spirited businessmen known as the Committee of 43, and the warehousemen's union.

Seemingly insuperable obstacles provoked sharp disagreement and trminated negotiations for the time being, but the determination of both parties to reach a statesmanlike solution gave proof of an unprecedented respect and concern for the third party to such disputes—the public.

For last week the silent and long-suffering partner to industrial conflict, the citizens of California, gave their overwhelming endorsement to peaceful solutions of labor diffieulties, in qualifying the proposed employment relations act for the November ballot with more than 205,000 certified signatures—20,000 more than necessary.

Once the premises of labor peace are expressed in writing and upheld by law, today's attempts at peace should be tomorrow's rule.

LION AND THE LAMB

Now that Japan and Russia have temporarily called off the shooting, we wonder if they have heard about the eminent speaker at the Institute of Public Affairs in Virginia who recently claimed the road to world peace lies in better rations for every nation's citizens.

Well, why not? The silk-hatted diplomats have miserably failed in bringing peace. If someone now thinks we can achieve it by making the lion lie down with the lamb chop, well and good. Proteins are always safer than protocols, and fried fricassee is better than a foolish fracas any day!

The safety of life insurance, as an institution, has been proven in a hundred economic storms. And that safety is guaranteed by two irrevocable prinieples—the multiplication table and the law of mortality. Life insurance has survived the greatest war and the greatest depression in modern history with its colors flying. That is why more and more citizens are turning to it as a haven for savings.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH NOTES
J. H. Bennett, Pastor

The youth group of the Congregational church will hold a special meeting this Sunday evening at 6:30 p. m. in the church parlors. All young people who are working in Campbell for the season are cordially invited to attend.

At 6:30 after a short devotional worship, special music will be enjoyed. Guests artists, new to San Jose and acquaintances of Rev. J. H. Bennett will give selections. Earnest H. Grebnau, a young German violinist and violin maker will play, accompanied by his wife, Pauline Ames Grebnau, teacher of voice and piano. This brilliant young couple now residing in San Jose intend to open an academy of music and voice. They have for some years broadcast over station WOWO, voice of Indiana, and were members of the Toledo civic symphony orchestra. Solos by Dennis Bennett and Pauline Grebnau will be rendered. Refreshments will be served and a social hour will follow.

The Rev. J. H. Bennett will speak this Wednesday evening at the Camp Fire of the West Bay Congregational Young People's conference now meeting at the Oakland Y. M. C. A. camp site in San Mateo mountains.

Fine congregations are being maintained this summer at the Congregational church each Sunday at 11 a. m. Friends visiting Campbell or living here temporarily are especially invited to attend. This Sunday the subject will be: "The Only Wise God." Talk to the children by the pastor.

That "Proven Candidate"!

Let us see what the voters think about the self-styled PROVEN Candidate:

In the 1934 General Election, 52,975 Santa Clara County men and women voted for Coroner. And here is the RESULT:

For Coroner Charles C. Spalding . . . 29,017 votes
For the PROVEN Candidate . . . . . 23,958 votes

The PROVEN Candidate was DISapproved by 5,059 Voters!

WHY?

'One Good Term Deserves Another'

Were the voters so blind as not to have recognized the sterling ability which the PROVEN Candidate says so confidently he possesses? Were they so utterly lacking in appreciation of the efforts of a man who is, in his own estimation of himself, "The PROVEN Candidate"?

We don't think so!

Why then did they vote him out of office as Coroner?

In the first place, they had elected him again and again—for FOUR STRAIGHT TERMS! SIXTEEN YEARS! Sixteen continuous years, mind you! That's a long, long time for one man to hold the same public office steadily.

At any rate, the voters DISapproved "The PROVEN Candidate" VERY DECISIVELY, which leads us to draw one of two conclusions:

Either "The PROVEN Candidate" had not PROVEN up to the voters' expectations as Coroner, or the voters decided that SIXTEEN STRAIGHT YEARS IN THE SAME OFFICE were enough for any one man.

Charles C. Spalding is seeking a SECOND term as Your
CORONER

RE-ELECT A LOYAL, IMPARTIAL, EFFICIENT PUBLIC OFFICAL

Canvass Started For Spalding

A house-to-house canvass for votes in behalf of Charles C. Spalding, candidate for re-election as coroner, was launched this week throughout the county by scores of field workers under the direction of district clubs, according to announcement from the Spalding headquarters yesterday. Palo Alto, San Jose, Sunnyvale, Mountain View, Los Altos and Gilroy are being systematically covered, with other groups starting in Los Gatos, Saratoga and Santa Clara next Monday, for a final drive in those localities.

Coroner Spalding said yesterday that service and efficiency have been the primary aims of the coroner's office during the four years of his administration. He said: "We have actually saved the taxpayers more money than any previous administration. Our official records prove this and these records are open to the public."

U. S. Too Lenient To Foreign War Debt Creditors

The United States has already exceeded all reasonable limitations of generosity in the treatment of foreign debtors, but every once in a while up comes the question of further reductions, but why should they be reduced? They're just, they're honest and long past due. Trade treaties on matters of imports and exports shouldn't cut any figure in the matter of settlement, but nations are very much like individuals and the longer a debt stands, the harder it is to pay, and when patience ceases to be a virtue and demands are made, they get a "huff on" and friendship becomes strained .

"Grattan Leads," Report In County

"All cities of Santa Clara county report that Eugene B. Grattan is leading the field in estimates on the outcome of the district attorney's race," D. C. Kirby, San Jose attorney and verification deputy for Grattan, said today.

"From Palo Alto to Gilroy, we hear from all sides that the people want a young, active district attorney. Eugene B. Grattan is gaining hundreds of votes every day in his race for district attorney. His wide knowledge of criminal and civil law, his courage and strength needed to maintain an aggressive attack on crime, and his experience with youth have won Grattan thousands of supporters," Kirby said.

Beds Suspended From Ceilings

In many early Ohio cabins beds were suspended from the ceiling as a protection against poisonous snakes which oftentimes managed to get in during the night. Once a person darkened the room and went to bed he usually stayed there until daylight. Then he would look closely over the floor—in many cabins it was the ground.

Social Security Act Is A Failure

Social security is now dubbed by Owen L. Scott, a noted Washington observer in a recent syndicated article, as the biggest administrative mess in peace-time history, and points out the crack-up of the unemployment insurance section, and predicts an even greater muddle in 1942 when the old age benefits go into effect. He further states that government officials are beginning to realize that the whole problem of aid for unemployment and the cure for unemployment must be dealt with as a unit instead of a series of individual problems.

Indians Liked Hot Bath

Among the interesting relics left by the Peone Indians, once a strong tribe in Washington state, is a bath where a hole was dug in the ground and lined with rocks. Larger stones were heated in open fires and dumped into the water for hot, steaming baths.

How to Get Invited to Tea

Immediately after the war Ireland found herself under curfew law and those found abroad after the hour were picked up and taken to the station. It is said that at the time the Black and Tans, or at least the auxiliary police, very often raided homes likely to be friendly in the hope of being invited to tea.

Service for Broken Dolls

Every year priests of the Tohoku temple in Sugamo, Tokyo, hold services for the broken dolls of the children of Japan. The ceremonies are solemnly attended by the "parents" of the shattered toys. Another unique service is that held for broken needles.

Trees of Panama Heavily Trunked

The trees in Panama are heavily trunked and grow to considerable height. They are perennially embraced with climbing vines and giant ferns grow at their base, forming a curtain so dense that the sun never penetrates through the thick foliage. Most of the mountains of Panama are covered by impenetrable jungles, inhabited by a great variety of animals and birds—tapirs, armadillos, zahinos, sloths, deer, rabbits, monkeys, jaguars, black bears (in the high regions of Chiriqui province), iguanas, macaws, parrots, parakeets, toucans, flamingoes, wild turkeys, ducks and geese.

High, Low Body Temperatures

The temperature of the body is highest between 5 and 8 p. m., lowest between 2 and 6 a. m.

How Trees Shed Bark

Trees with smooth bark shed their yearly growth on the outside of the trunk, while rough barked trees, such as the oak, retain the outercovering and add to it annually.

Birds That Fly High

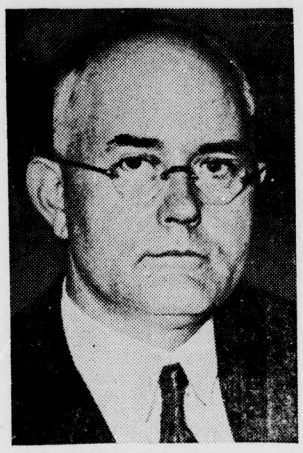
New Dealers Win and Lose; Girdler Storms Strike Quiz

Politics

In Idaho, Republicans were jubilant. In Ohio, they were hopeful. In Arkansas, where they never had a chance, Republicans went about their workaday tasks and forgot politics. But as homeward-bound Franklin Roosevelt looked at rapidly mounting primary returns from his 48 states last week he must have wondered whether his next congress would be any more coherent than the last.

His "purge" had partially failed because Iowa's Gillette, Missouri's Clark and Nevada's McCarran were sure of re-election. But with a few exceptions his wheelhorses were sure to be back in Washington next winter. To most observers it looked like congress would again be a hodge-podge of multi-colored political thought without party lines.

Judiciously timed, the national emergency council's report on conditions in the South was released



SENATOR POPE
Idaho had its own "purge."

just as the President marched through Georgia to back down on Sen. Walter F. George, the bitter-tongued New Deal foe whom he hopes will be defeated by Lawrence Camp. But Franklin Roosevelt had to march around South Carolina on his way back to Washington, because Sen. "Cotton Ed" Smith was almost certain to be renominated regardless of Presidential wishes.

Severest blow to New Dealism last week came when Sen. James Pope, in-and-out administration supporter, was defeated for renomination by Rep. D. Worth Clark, conservative Democrat. But Idaho's Republican primary vote was small, indicating that many a G. O. P. had voted the Democratic ticket to oust Pope.

In Arkansas, New Dealer Hattie W. Caraway was renominated to the senate and will be elected next November. In Ohio, Franklin Roosevelt's classmate at Harvard—Sen. Robert J. Bulkley—was given the Democratic nomination over Gov. Martin L. Davey, arch foe of the C. I. O. Ohio's senatorial race will be interesting because Bulkley will face Robert A. Taft, a former President's son, in the final election.

Labor

Republic Steel corporation's Tom W. Girdler has never been soft-spoken. Last week he stormed Washington and in one fell swoop denounced (1) John L. Lewis' C. I. O. for "violence and intimidation"; (2) the National Labor Relations board for "abridging freedom of speech," and (3) Sen. Robert M. LaFollette's civil liberties committee for keeping its work "one-sided."

Behind these blasts was last year's Little Steel strike. Ready for release was an N. L. R. B. decision finding Republic guilty of "unfair labor practices" in the Little Steel fiasco. Ready, too, were orders for Republic to reinstate 5,000 C. I. O. strikers, and to disestablish alleged company-dominated unions.

That Republic objected, is to state the case mildly. In its 136-page brief were 616 exceptions. What Little Steel most wanted was a chance to state its opinion of C. I. O., a chance the labor board seemed unwilling to offer. Thundered the report: "We contend the National Labor Relations act, as construed . . . in this connection, is unconstitutional as abridging freedom of speech."

Next day Tom Girdler carried his fight to the civil liberties committee, climaxing a three-week probe of last summer's bitter labor strife. Flaring up before Senator LaFollette's quiet, relentless cross-examination, he proved no humble witness. Denied was the right to read a statement criticizing the committee's work as "one-sided," and declaring it would be only fair to probe C. I. O.'s records to show what was being done with a $1,500,000 steel workers' fund.

Domestic

Last month a Saturday Evening Post article by Alva Johnson estimated Son James Roosevelt's annual insurance business at $250,000 to $2,000,000 a year, in itself not a very definite guess. Last week to rival Collier's magazine went Jimmy Roosevelt's income tax returns for the past five years, showing the annual income ranging from $21,714 to $49,167. The five-year total: $172,978.03.

Said Son James in comment: "I got into places I never would have if I wasn't the son of the President. But son or no son, I got tossed out a lot, too."

Countered Alva Johnson: "His figures show that his net income would have been more than $60,000 last year except that he split it . . . to avoid higher tax brackets."

Aviation

Last week at Floyd Bennett field ended the first non-stop Berlin to New York flight. Down from rain drenched skies dropped Germany's 24-passenger monoplane, Brandenburg, carrying a crew of four in record time of 24 hours, 57 minutes.

● Because tiny Canton and Enderbury islands are perfect mid-Pacific stopping-off places for transoceanic planes, the U. S. asserted its claim last march by planting colonists on each. Great Britain protested, anxious to guard her thus-far undeveloped Pacific air rights. Last week came as novel a settlement as diplomats have ever seen. Canton and Enderbury will be owned and developed jointly as U. S.-British aviation bases.

Crime

In the early 1930s, Chicago's gang warfare was so bad that many an out-of-town visitor wired ahead for police protection. But Scarface Al Capone finally went to Alcatraz and A Century of Progress exposition helped make the town decent. Last week peaceful Chicago wondered if it would again have gun trouble.

Checking their records, police found six underworld murders since Bookie Harry Minor was shot down June 29. Four others had been reported the previous 12 months. But while Al Capone and "Bugs" Moran fought a bootlegging war, Chicago's current massacre apparently has roots in labor warfare. Five victims have been union workers, two were aides of an alderman.

Foreign

"The Japanese say Changkufeng hill has fallen into their hands. They lie. I, Peter Mikilovitch Klejm, lieutenant of infantry in the Soviet army, am now with my division in the trenches on the hill which is safe in our hands. I can see the Japanese trenches only 200 yards away. The yellow bandits are plastering our positions with machine gun fire."

Seated at their radios one night last week, the whole of Russia's Soviet Union heard machine gun and rifle fire along the distant Changkufeng front where Siberia, Manchukuo and Korea converge. Next day heavy Soviet artillery pounded the whole four-mile front.

MAXIM LITVINOFF
He crossed swords and won.

Japan and Russia were continuing their five-year "secret war" which broke into international headlines July 11.

Throughout the day cannons boomed fiercely. All doubt about Soviet artillery accuracy was dissipated. Only one or two sighting shots preceded each direct hit. If they had held Changkufeng hill the night before, Japan's soldiers now retreated under the heaviest bombardment since the World war. Still more disturbing were reports that Russia was building new defenses on nearby Possiet bay where hostilities were sure to break out.

Next night the fight continued, but at 11 o'clock in the morning bugles sounded from either trench and ominous silence filled the shell-torn air. Then it was apparent the war was over.

Thus, temporarily at least, ended a skirmish of diplomatic wits in far away Moscow. Foreign Minister Maxim Litvinoff had crossed verbal swords with Ambassador Mamora Shigamitsu for two solid weeks, finally besting him. Terms of truce: (1) Firing would stop and troops would remain at their present fronts; (2) All other points at issue would be negotiated between the two nations.

Japan had sued first for peace, had surrendered to Maxim Litvinoff's insistence that the redemarcation commission carry two Japanese and two Russians, rather than three men each from Japan, Russia and Japan-dominated Manchukuo.

People

When Sweden's eligible Prince Bertil visited New York last month, he wined one night at a fashionable Manhattan night club with friends. One friend was blonde and buxom Lesley Hyde Ripley; lauded in next morning's papers for drinking milk instead of champagne. If Lesley Ripley drank milk to save money, her father spent much more than her savings on his daughter's debut last week.

A seldom-fallible sign of U. S. business trend is the amount invested by socialite fathers on their daughters' "coming out" parties. When Franklyn Hutton staged Barbara's debut, money ran free throughout the U. S. Depression debutantes fared not so well. But when Henry B. H. Ripley spent at least $50,000 to launch Lesley in the social swim, it appeared that Recession must surely be over.

LESLEY HYDE RIPLEY
She was launched for $50,000.

One thousand guests besported themselves in a $25,000 ballroom added to the Ripley mansion. They washed down supper and breakfast with champagne for a total outlay of $10,000. They danced, and the pipers earned $7,500. Decorations nicked the family purse for $5,000. But unlike many such parties, the Ripley Roman Holiday was bought and paid for within 24 hours.

● Samuel Insull, once monarch of a $4,000,000,000 utilities empire, died in a Paris subway station July 17, clutching a five-cent commutation ticket. Last week his will was filed in Chicago's probate court. Samuel Insull's estate: "Not in excess of $1,000."

Business

In 1934, NRA Administrator Hugh Johnson organized a consumer goods industries committee to make periodic forecasts on U. S. trade winds. Last week came its most recent report. Trade winds are blowing well, said 20 major executives, will blow even better in the autumn. Excerpts from typical replies:

From Lammont duPont: "Since July 1 we have operated 5 per cent above standard. Business has improved about 15 per cent."

From General Foods' Clarence Francis: "We believe the last half of the year—particularly the last quarter—will give a fairly good account of itself."

Miscellany

A fortnight had passed since Howland Spencer sold to Father Divine his 500-acre estate across the Hudson from Neighbor Franklin Roosevelt. But not until last week did Father Divine's personal army of cherubims and seraphims make a tour of inspection. Led by the man they call "God," 2,500 black and white cultists plied up the river from Harlem in a sidewheel excursion boat, stopping first at a newly acquired "Heaven" near Milton, N. Y.

Over a table piled high with cold chicken and steaming corn, Harlem's self-appointed messiah told his rapt audience:

"As his close neighbors we are not going to disgrace the President. We aim to grace him by our presence. Peace, everybody."

"Peace!" answered a thousand throats.

Next day, as Father Divine made his personal inspection at Crum Elbow, Eleanor Roosevelt hopped in her car across the river, headed for nearby Poughkeepsie. If inquiring reporters thought she would talk about her new neighbors, the First Lady outfoxed them.

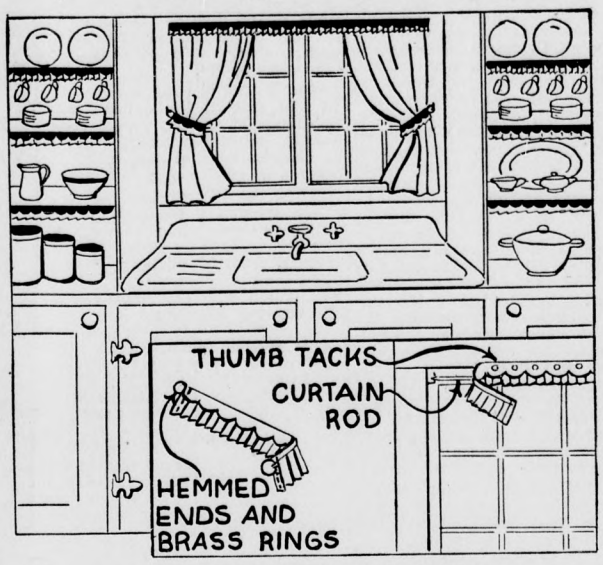
"Father Divine?" she parried. "What estate? Oh, you mean that place across the river that's been sold?"

● June 30 found the average U. S. citizen with $49.67 in his pocket. By July 31, said the U. S. treasury department last week, the figure had dropped to $49.57. Throughout America John Public checked his bank account, tried to figure where he had lost 10 cents in 31 days.

● One night last week handsome, wealthy Mr. and Mrs. William Townsend Adlee retired at their Monroe, N. Y., estate. Sometime later a handyman smelled smoke. Down from a second-story window jumped Nurse Lillian Henyon with the Adlees' 21-month-old infant. As firemen watched, helpless, the flaming house collapsed and the baby became an orphan.

HOW TO SEW

by Ruth Wyeth Spears



Trim kitchen windows with oilcloth shelf edging.

WE ARE indebted to one of the readers of this column for this idea. She was so enthusiastic about the book SEWING, for the Home Decorator, offered with these articles that she wrote a nice letter of appreciation and also described this clever idea of her own for making her kitchen gay. All of us know how often kitchen curtains must be laundered. Yet, we like interesting windows in this room as well as any other. Well, here is the answer with the minimum of work.

The curtains themselves are as easy to wash and iron as a dish towel—no frills, just hems. But don't make them too skimpy. A full width of 35-inch-wide material is not too wide. Cut away the selvage at the front edge and hem it with a 1-inch hem. Use a 2-inch hem at the bottom. This gives the curtains body so they will have smart crisp lines. The casing at the top should be just wide enough for the curtain rod. And don't forget to allow for shrinkage if the material is not preshrunken.

If figured material is used, choose colors that will harmonize with the shelf edging along the top of the window and the tiebacks as shown in the sketch. The thumb tacks used for the shelf edging may also add color interest.

NOTE: Every Homemaker should have a copy of Mrs. Spears' book, SEWING, for the Home Decorator. Forty-eight pages of directions for making slip-covers and curtains; dressing tables; lampshades and many other useful articles for the home. Price 25 cents postpaid (coin preferred). Ask for Book 1, and address Mrs. Spears, 210 S. Desplaines St., Chicago, Ill.

How Women in Their 40's Can Attract Men

Here's good advice for a woman during her change (usually from 38 to 52), who fears she'll lose her appeal to men, who worries about hot flashes, loss of pep, dizzy spells, upset nerves and moody spells.

Get more fresh air, 8 hrs. sleep and if you need a good general system tonic take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made especially for women. It helps Nature build up physical resistance, thus helps give more vivacity to enjoy life and assist calming jittery nerves and disturbing symptoms that often accompany change of life. WELL WORTH TRYING!

Consider Before Telling

There are three things that should be considered before some things are told—the manner, the place and the time. — Robert Southey.

Sentinels of Health

Don't Neglect Them!

Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure.

When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out.

Frequent, scanty or burning passages may be further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance.

The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are endorsed the country over. Insist on Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.

ORDER FIXING BOUNDARIES AND CALLING ELECTION RE CAMPBELL SANITARY DISTRICT

WHEREAS, twenty-five and more persons, residents and freeholders of that portion of the County of Santa Clara, State of California known as the unincorporated town of Campbell, desiring the formation of a sanitary district therein, filed with the Board of Supervisors of said county a verified written petition therefore, signed by them, stating the name of the proposed district, setting forth the boundaries thereof, and praying that the lands included within said boundaries should be organized as a sanitary district under the provisions of the act of the legislature of said state known as Chapter 171 of the Statutes of 1923, and amendments thereto, hereinafter referred to as the sanitary district act, whereupon the Board of Supervisors took proceedings under the act of the legislature of said state known as the "District Investigation Act of 1933," at the conclusion of which it was ordered and determined by said board to proceed in accordance with the statute under which the district is to be organized; and

WHEREAS, the petition for formation of said district was duly and regularly published in "The Campbell Press" a newspaper of general circulation published and circulated within said proposed district, together with a notice stating the time when said petition would be presented to the Board of Supervisors, and that all persons interested therein might appear and be heard, as shown and evidenced by the affidavit of Edna F. Smith the publisher of said newspaper, on file with the County Clerk; and

WHEREAS, the Board of Supervisors did then and there hear said petition and all persons interested therein, and as a result found and concluded that no lands have been improperly omitted from or included within the proposed district, and that all the lands within the boundaries of the proposed district as discribed in said petition, but no others, would be benefited by the formation of said sanitary district, and a full hearing having been had thereon, and the same being final and conclusive, now therefore

The Board of Supervisors of the County of Santa Clara Order, Resolve and Determine as follows:

Section 1. That said petition as originally presented be and the same is hereby approved, and the exterior boundaries of said district be and they are hereby described as follows:

Beginning at the point of intersection of the westerly extension of the line parallel to and one hundred seventy- five (175) feet northerly from the center line of Hamilton Avenue with the line parallel to and one hundred seventy- five (175) feet westerly from the center line of the Santa Clara-Los Gatos Road, which point is also located in the S. E. ¼ of the N. E. ¼ of Sec. 27 of Twp. 7 S. R. 1 W. M. D. B. M., and running thence southerly parallel to the center line of said Santa Clara-Los Gatos Road to a point one hundred seventy-five (175) feet northerly from the center line of Latimer Avenue; thence westerly parallel to the said center line of Latimer Avenue eighteen hundred five (1805) feet; thence southerly parallel to the center line of the Santa Clara-Los Gatos Road to a point one hundred seventy-five (175) feet northerly from the center line of Campbell Avenue; thence westerly parallel to the said center line of Campbell Avenue fourteen hundred sixty (1460) feet; thence southerly parallel to the center line of the Santa Clara-Los Gatos Road three hundred fifty (350) feet; thence easterly parallel to the said center line of Campbell Avenue fourteen hundred sixty (1460) feet; thence southerly parallel to the center line of the Santa Clara-Los Gatos Road to a point one hundred seventy-five (175) feet southerly from the center line of Rincon Avenue; thence easterly parallel to said center line of Rincon Avenue to a point one hundred seventy-five (175) feet westerly from the center line of the Santa Clara-Los Gatos Road; thence southerly parallel to said center line of the Santa Clara-Los Gatos Road sixteen hundred ninety and eighty-five hundredths (1690.85) feet more or less, to the westerly extension of the southern line of Lot 3 of the Kennedy Tract; thence easterly along the southern line of Lots 3, 5 and 6 of the Kennedy Tract as extended westerly, to the southeastern corner of said Lot 6; thence northerly and northeasterly along the southeastern line of said Lot 6 to the southeastern line of Rucker's Addition; thence northeasterly along said southeastern line of Rucker's Addition to the center line of Los Gatos Creek; thence along the center line of Los Gatos Creek northeasterly and northerly to a point one hundred seventy-five (175) feet northerly from the center line of Hamilton Avenue; thence westerly parallel to said center line of Hamilton Avenue to the point of beginning, all as said avenues, lots and tracts are delineated on maps which are a part of the Official Records of Santa Clara County, said enclosed district being a portion of Sections 26, 27, 34, and 35 of T. 7 S. R. 1 W. M. D. B. M.

Sec. 2. An election is hereby called and ordered to be held in said proposed district, on Tuesday, the 20th day of September, 1938, for the purpose of submitting to the qualified electors residing therein the proposition of forming the lands described within the boundaries thereof into a sanitary district under said sanitary district act, the same to be called the Campbell Sanitary District; also, at said election, persons to fill the offices provided for by said act, viz., a sanitary assessor and five members of the sanitary board will be voted for.

Candidates for the office of Assessor or for members of the Sanitary Board may be nominated by petition in the manner provided by section thirty (30) of said sanitary district act.

Sec. 3. The election hereby called and ordered to be held, shall be conducted as nearly as practicable in accordance with the general election laws of the state, except as otherwise provided in said sanitary district act.

The ballots to be used at said special election shall be such as may be required by law to be used thereat, and in addition to any other matter required by law to be printed thereon, shall appear thereon the following:

Election on Sanitary District

INSTRUCTION TO VOTERS: To vote for a candidate of your selection, stamp a cross (x) in the voting square to the right of the name of such candidate. Where two or more candidates for the same office are to be elected, stamp a cross (X) after the names of all the candidates for that office for whom you desire to vote, not to exceed however, the number of candidates who are to be elected. To vote for a person not on the ballot, write the name of such person under the title of the office in the blank space left for that purpose. To vote on the proposition, stamp a cross (X) in the voting square after the word "YES" or after the word "NO". All marks except the cross (X) are forbidden. All distinguishing marks or erasures are forbidden and make the ballot void.

SANITARY ASSESSOR Vote for One	PROPOSITION Sanitary District - "YES" Sanitary District - "NO"
MEMBERS OF THE SANITARY BOARD Vote for Five

Sec. 4. Sample ballots containing the above matter required to be printed thereon, also a card stating the location of the precinct polling place of the elector, shall be supplied to the electors residing within the boundaries of the proposed district by the County Clerk, but a failure on the part of any elector to receive such sample ballot or such notice shall not be held to invalidate the election or affect in any manner the legality of the sanitary district if authorized thereat.

Sec. 5. Every qualified elector, residing within the proposed district for the period requisite to enable him to vote at a general election, shall be entitled to vote at the election above provided for.

Sec. 6. There shall be one polling place within the proposed district for the purpose of holding said election, which polling place shall be located at Campbell Union Grammar School and the officers to conduct said election at said polling place shall be:

Inspector (1) Edwin Bowling
Judges (2) B. Alma Leverton and Maude Hyde.

The County Clerk is hereby directed to procure all supplies that may be necessary to properly and lawfully conduct said election.

Sec. 7. At said special election the polls shall be opened at six (6) o'clock A. M. of the day of said election, and be kept open until seven (7) o'clock P. M. of the same day, when the polls shall be closed except as otherwise provided by Section 1164 of the Political Code.

When the polls are closed the officers of election shall count the ballots cast thereat, and canvass the votes cast for the respective candidates, and those cast respectively for and against the proposition herein stated, whereupon they shall make return thereof to the County Clerk in the time, form and manner required by law.

Sec. 8. The Board of Supervisors of the County of Santa Clara shall meet, at their usual place of meeting, at ten o'clock A. M, on the first Monday after said election, and canvass the returns thereof, or direct their canvass as provided by Section 1278 of the Political Code.

Sec. 9. If a majority of the votes cast at such election shall be in favor of a sanitary district, the said Board of Supervisors shall make and cause to be entered in the minutes of said board an order that a sanitary district of the name and boundaries stated in this order has been duly established, and said order shall be conclusive evidence of the fact and regularity of all prior proceedings of every kind and nature provided by said sanitary district act or by law, and of the existence and validity of said sanitary district. The Board of Supervisors shall also declare and have entered on the minutes of the board, the names of the officers elected in and for said district.

Sec. 10. A copy of this order shall be posted for four successive weeks prior to the election, in three public places within the proposed district, and shall be published for four successive weeks prior to the election in "The Campbell Press," a weekly newspaper of general circulation published and circulated within the proposed district.

I hereby certify the foregoing to be a true copy of Order Fixing Boundaries and Calling Election Re Campbell Sanitary District adopted by the Board of Supervisors of the County of Santa Clara, California, at a regular meeting thereof held on the 15th day of August, 1938, by the following vote of the members thereof:

Ayes, and in favor thereof, Supervisors: Hecker, Wool, McKinnon.
Noes, Supervisors. None
Absent, Supervisors: Cooley.

PETITION TO INCLUDE OUTLYING TERRITORY WITHIN THE FIRE LIMITS OF THE TOWN OF CAMPBELL

The following petition including certain territory into the Campbell Fire District having been filed with the Board of Supervisors, Notice is hereby given that said petition is set for hearing on Tuesday, the 6th day of September, 1938 at the hour of 10 o'clock A. M. in the chambers of the Board of Supervisors in the Courthouse of the County of Santa Clara, in the City of San Jose.

To the Honorable Board of Supervisors of the County of Santa Clara, State of California:

We, the undersigned, hereby represent to and petition your Honorable Board as follows:

That the following district be included in the Campbell Fire district. That the property hereinafter described is contiguous to the unincorporated Town of Campbell and the fire limits thereof; that the assessed valuation thereof as shown by the last equalized assessment book of the County of Santa Clara is $46,775.00. That none of the property so described lies within the fire limits of any other unincorporated town or village; that the petitioners whose names are appended hereto are the owners of real estate which represents at least seventy-five per cent of the assessed valuation of said described real property as shown by said last equalized assessment book and that the amount of real property owned by each petitioner and the assessed valuation thereof as shown by said last equalized assessment book is correctly set forth opposite the name of each petitioner.

That the property above referred to and which we hereby respectfully ask to have included within the fire limits of the Town of Campbell is described as follows:

Beginning at a point in the north line of the Campbell Fire District as established and recorded Feb. 20, 1918, in Miscellaneous Records in the Office of the Recorder of Santa Clara County, said point being 173 feet west of the west line of the Santa Clara and Los Gatos Road, and in the north line of the lands of S. N. Hedegard; thence running northerly parallel and distant westerly 173 feet from the west line of said Road to the center line of Latimer Avenue; thence easterly to the center line of the Santa Clara and Los Gatos Road; thence northerly to the center line of Hamilton Avenue; thence easterly to the east line of Lot 1 of the P.
